GACoS is a collection of database links for finding academic information such as journal articles or newspaper articles.
At the University of Tokyo, you can use E-journals, E-books*1 and databases*2 of various fields such as case law and statistical data. You can get various information by using GACoS.

Moreover, GACoS provides you the things below.

1. The schedule of the Database Training Course.

2. How to access databases and e-resources from off-campus.

*1 E-journal/E-book: Electronic version of journal article/book

*2 Database: A searchable collection of information in a specific field

I want to know how to write an academic paper

The Database Training Courses are held sometimes.

More information is available on the Course Schedule tab.

You can download the handouts of the Database Training Course from the "Quick Guide".

"Academic Paper Support Book: Start here" is also useful.

Can I read old newspapers online?

Yes, you can access various newspaper databases by selecting "Newspaper Articles" in "Source Type" of "Find Database" in GACoS.

Is there a database accessible from off-campus?

Of course, yes. Please check the website below.
