This week's manga GO! HAPPY MANIA By Moyoko Anno (Shodensha)
"Happy Mania," the epitome of aggressive love comedy, was serialized from 1995 until 2001 in Feel Young women's manga magazine. Its protagonist Kayoko Shigeta, is a 24-year-old part-time worker who thinks of nothing else besides finding a boyfriend. Her coworker Takahashi likes her, but she shows no interest in the dull guy who wears glasses. As soon as she meets a guy who is anywhere near good-looking, she instantly falls in love and spends the night with him, only to be dumped soon after. This is a pattern she repeats countless times. "I need someone more attractive. I want a cool guy who wouldn't fall in love with the likes of me." With such contradicting ambition, it is easy to see why she can't find happiness, but the true strength of this protagonist, nicknamed Shigekayo, lies in the fact that she can't be discouraged. She charges ahead like a steam engine through the barren wilderness that is her love life, and I found it fascinating that I gradually began to empathize with her and eventually found her to be a dedicated person and even somewhat sweet. I had to keep reminding myself though, that the author, mangaka Moyoko Anno, has labeled as her "someone you should never try to emulate."
